STEM Star of the week

Dolphins - April

It was so lovely to see April take a leadership role when testing materials to see whether they were conductors or insulators. She made sure that her group began with a complete circuit which included a switch. It was soon clear that the circuit needed to be adapted in order to test a pair of scissors. April explained to the group that the scissors were made of both plastic and metal and worked out a way of adapting the circuit to fit in the materials and test each of them separately. Well done April!

The following nominations were received for

Word of the Week: Resourceful

Coastguards - Jack showed how resourceful he can be in art this week. We were focusing on using shapes such as squares, triangles and circles to create a larger collage and Jack was able to make a beautiful image of a bear out of tiny rectangles! He was very resourceful in selecting the different types of paper and specific colours he needed from a wider group to create his work. Well done Jack!

Oystercatchers - Ava was very resourceful this week when she was absent from school. She didn't let that stop her from learning and spent her time learning about the rain forest at home! She created some pictures of rain forest animals and brought them in to show us all. She had cleverly combined our topic of plants with her art by using fallen flower petals to make the snakes skin! amazing.
